ACT PROVIDES ANOTHER DAM ON TENNESSEE GIRL SLAYER TAKES HER OWN LIFE

POLISH IMMIGRANT WHO BECAME NOTED TAKES QUICK POISON

Wanda Elaine Stopa in Hotel Room, Brings End to Career

POLICE TRAILED HER TO DETROIT

Brilliant Attorney, She Was Also Gay Figure in Studio Life

(Associated Press)

DETROIT, April 26—A quick acting poison, self-administered, according to the coroner, in a hotel room here late yesterday, ended the career of Wanda Elaine Stopa, once a Polish immigrant girl, who became a brilliant lawyer, and also a gay figure in the life of Greenwich village in New York.

Miss Stopa died just a few hours before Chicago police, who were seeking her in connection with the slaying of Henry Manning, aged caretaker, at the home of Y. Kenley Smith, wealthy advertising man, Thursday, had informed local officers that she was registered at a Detroit hotel.

The woman, according to the police, in a jealous rage, went to the Smith residence for the purpose of killing him and his wife, after he had refused to obtain a divorce and shot Manning when he attempted to protect Mrs. Smith.

Mystery surrounded the death of Miss Stopa in Detroit. She registered under the name of Glasgow. A guest at the hotel saw the woman in the writing room and thought he recognized her from newspaper photographs. He looked over her shoulder and saw she was writing a letter to Ms. Inez Stopa, Chicago.

Notifies Managers.

He then notified the assistant manager of the hotel. When he got to the place where the woman had been sitting, she was gone, according to hotel attaches. The letter was not found among Miss Stopa's effects, according to the coroner.

Shortly after the hotel manager was told Miss Stopa was there, a call came from the room occupied by the woman registered as Glasgow, saying she was ill.

A house physician who went to the room rapped and received no response. He then opened the door just in time to see the woman fall back on the bed. She died in a few minutes. On a dresser was a bottle that had contained poison.

Coroner Notified.

The coroner's office was notified at the woman's body taken to an undertaking establishment. No report was made to the police of the suicide, according to police. Three hours later police were notified by Chicago officers that Miss Stopa had been seen in a hotel in Detroit. After looking over the hotel register they discovered the woman had committed suicide. Detectives later identified the body of the dead woman as Miss Stopa.

According to the coroner, Miss Stopa had no baggage, except a small bag containing lingerie and toilet articles.

A letter signed Kenley and addressed to "Dear Wand Jean" and an address book also were found. The letter threw no light on the tragedies in Chicago and Detroit. The address book showed the names of a number of prominent persons in New York city, many of them writers and artists.

FINE PAID

A fine of $100.00 was paid in cash by a West Albany resident Saturday morning to Albany city authorities following his conviction in the Mayor's court of violating the prohibition laws. About seven quarts of liquor were said to have been found at the home of the violator by the day police force of the city on Friday.

The two new members added to the First Christian church at last night's revival at that church brings the total additions to the church for this week to nine. The opening prayer was by H. L. Kirby. In addition to the regular song service, the following sang as a quartette: C. L. Shook, A. V. Gilliam, W. H. Humphries and Floyd Napps.

SPEAKER URGES NO BACKWARD STEP BE TAKEN ON DRY LAW

Miss Roena Shaner Is Heard at Church in Fine Address

NEW MEMBERS FOR THE W. C. T. U.

Many Join Organization After Hearing Miss Shaner Speak

The third of the addresses of Miss Roena Shaner, national representative of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, during her visit to the local W. C. T. U. was delivered at the Westminster Presbyterian church Friday night before a large number of the members of the W. C. T. U.

Miss Shaner left today for Huntsville for a series of addresses. Mrs. John F. Lovin, president of the Twin City W. C. T. U., presided at the meeting at the Westminster church called for the following numbers of the program before the address of the distinguished visitor. Hymn, with Mrs. George Jackson, piano accompanist; Bible reading and prayer, Miss Ellen Greenadyke; Hymn, "Onward Christian Soldiers," introduction of the speaker, J. E. Blair. Address by Miss Shaner.

Following her address the speaker closed the meeting with an earnest prayer. A number joined the national W. C. T. U. as active and associate members, which required the signing of a standard temperance pledge to "obtain from the use of all alcoholic beverages." During the visit of Miss Shaner a large number paid their dues to the W. C. T. U. and about a dozen new members were secured.

In her address Miss Shaner said that 90 per cent of the alcoholic liquors sold were wine and beer so that it was no wonder the whiskeyites said they wanted only light wines and beer especially since they felt sure they could break down all prohibition laws if a higher content of alcohol was allowed in beer and wines.

The speaker attacked the prohibition record of Governor Alf Smith of New York. The speaker said that the short and ugly word in large capital letters was the only one that suitably described the liquor propagandists of this day and time. In a lengthy address during a large part of which the church was in complete darkness, Miss Shaner pleaded with her hearers to allow no backward steps as regards the 18th amendment, the Volstead act, and the enforcement of the prohibition laws.

Miss Greenadyke the veteran W. C. T. U. worker, spoke at some length while commenting on the scripture reading she gave from Ezekiel 33, where the "watchmen on the walls" were admonished to report the approach of the enemy, on pain of having upon their own heads the blood of all who might be killed should the enemy reach the city gates.

SIX ADDITIONS TO SOUTHSIDE CHURCH

The Southside Baptist church enters the second week of its revival with the membership greatly encouraged by the results already accomplished, six additions to the church membership having been made. The sermons Sunday, as have been most of the sermons at that church this week, will be preached by Rev. W. R. Beckett of Amory, Miss.

Rev. Beckett's announced subjects are "Confessing Christ in the Word," at the Sunday morning service and "Salvation" at the Sunday night service. Large congregations are hearing the distinguished visitor and are being encouraged greatly by his sermons.

MISS POINTER WINS THIRD PRIZE IN THE ORATORICAL EVENT

Popular Local Girl to Get Scholarship as a Result

PARENTS HEAR HER BY RADIO

Fans "Listen In" While Contestants Give Their Addresses

The name of Miss Marjorie Pointer, the Decatur high school girl who for the third time has become a winner in the oratorical contests now in progress throughout the nation, in which the contesting orators laud the principles of the American Constitution is on the lips of all here Saturday following her great speech in Birmingham Friday night when the popular local girl won a $280 scholarship which she can use in the Alabama educational institution of her choice this next fall.

Many people here, who heard Miss Pointer speaking by means of radio Friday night, and other Twin City people who heard her speak her oration entitled "The American Constitution" in the auditorium of the First Baptist church of Birmingham, expected her to win the right to represent Alabama May 16 when students from six Southern states will contest for the right to speak at Washington, D. C., early this summer, for the nationwide prize in a contest similar to the one just held in the Magic City.

But the distinction of representing the state against the South fell to Jack Turner, a high school student of Birmingham, and the $460 scholarship was won by John Delle, a high school student of Tuscaloosa. Miss Pointer was the only young lady to enter the Birmingham contest.

She was sent to speak there following her triumph over all contestants of the Eighth district at Sheffield a few evenings ago. Miss Pointer was sent to Sheffield following her defeat of Morgan County contestants at the Albany high school about three weeks ago. Miss Pointer spoke against ten male contestants and defeated all but two of them. She is being warmly congratulated, as are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Pointer, and those who trained her for the Birmingham contest.

D. D. Gibson, one of the Twin City people who heard Miss Pointer at Birmingham, stated Saturday that many in this vicinity in the big church auditorium ooked for Miss Pointer to win first place.

Through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Daniell, many of Miss Pointer's school friends, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Pointer, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Bailey, heard Miss Pointer over radio at the Daniell home as she contended for the prize against her stalwart male antagonists. It is estimated that thousands of loyal Alabamians "listened in" last night to hear the contest at the Birmingham church.

Dr. Spight Dowell of Auburn, head of the Alabama Polytechnic institute; Dr. George H. Denny of Tuscaloosa, head of the University of Alabama and Dr. T. W. Palmer of Montevallo head of Alabama college, were the judges.

Delay Enforcing Marine Act Section

(Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 26—Enforcement of section 28 of the merchant marine act should be deferred from June 20 next until May 1, 1925, under a resolution reported today to the merchant marine committee.

By a vote of 14 to 2 the committee accepted the sub-committee report, recommending postponement of the preferential railroad freight rate to shippers using American vessels, which would be declared by the section.

TWELVE CITIZENS OF VALLEY NAMED AS "INTERVENORS"

Will Receive Copies of Fertilizer Production Is the Power Company's Petition for Line

FUSSELL NAMED FROM THIS CITY

Some of "Intervenor" Opposed Petition at First Hearing

Announcement was made here Saturday of the appointment of twelve North Alabama men as "Intervenor" by the Alabama Public Service Commission in connection with the petition filed with the commission by the Alabama Power company asking authority for the erection of a power line from Haggood to Huntsville via the Twin Cities. W. W. Fussell, vice president of the Tennessee Valley bank was one of the twelve.

The others are as follows: T. W. Pratt, Huntsville, chairman; A. H. Carmichael, Tusculumbia; C. W. Sarver, Athens; J. L. Andrews, Sheffield; W. H. Mitchell, Florence; R. M. Jones, Florence; D. L. Spangler, Leighton; A. I. Armstrong, Town Creek; Oran B. Hill, Florence, and H. A. Bradshaw, Florence.

It is understood that the transmission line, if erected, will have a capacity of 110,000 volts.

The public service commission requires that the Alabama Power company shall deliver copies of its petition to the twelve citizens named. It is said some of the men appointed opposed the erection of such a line by the power company at previous times.

The commission held that the intervenors should not only have notice of the filing of the application, but should have copies of the application in time for study before the date of the hearing. Counsel of the power company will be required to file a certificate at least ten days before the date of the hearing, showing that copies of the application had been delivered to the intervenors.

In referring to the pending petition the Montgomery bureau of the Birmingham Age-Herald states:

Because of the complications due to the kaleidoscopic movements in the litigation during the week, many persons have become confused about the status of the various cases, according to information at the capital today. Several inquiries have been made as to why the commission had not reached a decision on the case.

The Alabama Power company filed its original petition April 13, 1923. The case was taken under advisement by the commission May 18, 1923. On June 12, 1923, the commission rendered a decision denying the petition for permission to construct the transmission line. The Alabama Power company made no effort to obtain a rehearing last year.

It took no further action in the case until January 14, 1924, when it filed another petition, this time requesting permission to construct a transmission line of 44,000 volts over the same territory. Final hearings on the second petition were heard February 29 and the case was taken under advisement. On April 23 the Huntsville Manufacturers' association and the Lincoln Mills of Huntsville filed with the Montgomery circuit court a petition for a writ of mandamus requiring the public service commission to issue an order in the case.

JAMES R. GARFIELD AVERS POWER NEED OVERSHADOWS ALL

Former Secretary of Interior Appears as a Witness

OPPOSES OFFER OF HENRY FORD

Former Secretary of Interior Appears as a Witness

(Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 26—H. F. Paff, manager of the Washington office of the Western Union, appeared before the committee in answer to a subpoena and presented, under protest, a batch of telegrams which had been exchanged between E. G. Liebold, Ford's private secretary, and William J. Cameron and James M. Miller. It is understood that Miller is a Washington newspaper correspondent and Cameron is an employee of the Dearborn Independent.

Chairman Norris said the telegrams would not be made public until he introduced them at the committee hearing next Monday.

Among the witnesses to testify on Monday will be Secretary Weeks.

WASHINGTON, April 26—James R. Garfield, former secretary of the interior, told the senate agriculture committee at today's Muscle Shoals hearing that he wished to appear because "The Ford bid seems to me so destructive as to requirements very clearly understood under the provisions of the federal waterpower act."

The waterpower resources of the country should be developed for the needs of all the people of the community," he continued.

"It is interesting to know that Muscle Shoals was the first site to come under the government's conservation policy. President Roosevelt vetoed the first bill calling for the disposal of Muscle Shoals to a private individual. The natural resources of a country should not be exploited by any individual but should be used for the benefit of the generations to come."

Garfield said the power should be distributed under the provisions of the federal waterpower act.

"The act provides for a fair margin of profit on the amount of capital involved and the property would be returned to the government after expiration of the terms of the lease. "It is natural," he said, "that private interests would be encouraged to attempt to exploit the property."

"I cannot but feel that the Ford proposition violates in every sense the general principle I have been speaking of."

"It is inconsistent with the waterpower act in that it does not require that power rates be regulated by the state or government, does not provide for return of property, not limit the return on capital invested."

Value Indeterminable.
"The future value of this grant is indeterminable, but is vastly greater than the millions already expended by the government."

Chairman Norris asked if a lessee could not sell lots in the two towns at Muscle Shoals and make millions of dollars profits.

"I have no doubt, Senator," Garfield replied.

"If these plants are used to produce

ITEM INTRODUCED BY ALMON CARRIES BEACH'S APPROVAL

Government Can Build Cheaper Now, the House Is Told

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 26—Provision for construction of navigation Dam No. 1 on the Tennessee river, a few miles below the Wilson Dam at Muscle Shoals is contained in the rivers and harbors bill and reported to the house by the rivers and harbors committee this morning.

Special to The Daily.

WASHINGTON, April 26—The River and harbor bill, which has just been reported to the house by the river and harbor committee, carries an item introduced by Representative Almon and endorsed by General Beach, chief of engineers, which authorizes and provides funds for the construction of Dam number one on the Tennessee river below the Wilson dam and near the Florence bridge, in accordance with the report submitted in house document numbered 1262, 64th Congress, 1st session, but authorizes the Secretary of War, in his discretion, to make such modifications in the plans presented in that report as he may deem advisable in the interest of navigation.

Representative Almon and General Beach explained to the committee that when the Wilson Dam is completed and the power house put in operation, about one year from now, that all navigation above the Florence Bridge would be cut off entirely by reason of the change of the flow of the water to the south channel of the river. They also urge the importance of the construction of this dam at this time and explained that it could be done for $1,600,000, but if delayed until after the force at the Wilson Dam had been disbanded and equipment moved away it would cost $2,240,000. So by doing the work now, there would be a saving to the government of $640,000.

ASKS CITATION OF MAL S. DAUGHERTY

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 26—Without debate, the senate today adopted a resolution citing M. S. Daugherty, of Ohio, for contempt because of his failure to respond to the summons of the Daugherty committee. Immediately the clerk's office prepared a warrant for Mr. Daugherty's arrest and the sergeant-at-arms prepared to serve it as soon as Senator Cummins, the president pro-tem, had affixed his signature.

WASHINGTON, April 26—A report to the senate, declaring M. S. Daugherty, of Washington Courthouse, Ohio, guilty of contempt and a resolution, ordering his arrest and arraignment before the senate itself, to answer the charge, was introduced today by Chairman Brookhart of the Daugherty investigatory committee.

The suspicion is getting out that, despite his amiable qualities, some people of the nation don't like Henry Ford. There's a reason.

They are keeping after Henry Ford, in the hope that he will do the sensational stunt of throwing up his hands and declaring that he is done with the whole blessed business at Muscle Shoals.

The good wife and good works of Giff Pinchot of Pennsylvania are availing him little in this naughty world. The Governor will not even get to be a delegate to his party convention at Cleveland.

The French have shown once more how polite they are. They are saying that a recent speech of C. Coolidge on foreign relations is an important one.

Sunday is less than 24 hours away. The churches of the Twin Cities extend you a cordial invitation to attend services. Worship with the church of your choice Sunday, and you will find that Monday has lost much of its proverbial "blueness." Go to church Sunday!

The approaching conventions of the two major political parties will bring together a record number of women delegates, if the vote of states in which early elections are held can be taken as an indication of what the remaining states will do.

In 1920, the first year in which women in many of the states participated in the presidential elections, the democratic convention had only 92 women delegates, out of the 1,098 delegates present. This year nine of the smaller states elected 31 women delegates. The republican committee has returns from 32 states, indicating that 28 women already have been elected.

The democratic party seems to be considerably in advance of the republican organization in the matter of kindly consideration of the woman voter. The democrats not only lead the republicans in election of women to the national conventions, but the democrats, in 1920, placed the women on an equality with men in the convention, awarding them full voting power in selecting and determining upon the party issues. On the other hand, the republicans have been permitting women only the title of "associate members" and neglecting to give them voting power. In the 1924 convention, however, the republican women delegates are expected to exercise the ballot on an equal footing with the men.

The Florence Daily News carries an account of the visit to the Tri Cities of Mrs. Conrad Ohme, of Birmingham, to interview a number of residents of the former community in the interest of the formation of "Better Films Committees." It is well that the organizations which are devoting themselves to the task of raising the standards of the movies are getting back to the proper source of inspiration—the public.

Censors probably serve their purpose, but the movies never will be what many of us would like for them to be, until the public learns to appreciate the more elevating productions, and neglects to patronize those which do not measure up to the higher standards.

If one cares to make a study of the question, the attendance figures at the local playhouses would be illuminating.

Films come here of the highest order and the public apparently is indifferent—the attendance is nothing whatever to be enthusiastic about.

Later another film is booked not quite so elevating—and the attendance jumps. After all, wouldn't it be better if we directed some of the criticism we are prone to place on the movies, on ourselves and our lack of appreciation instead?

Where beauty is recognized, and that is nearly everywhere, Flo Ziegfeld, producer of the famous "Follies" at the Winter Garden, is known as the beauty world's keenest judge of values. Flo now appears in a new role—that of advertising expert, and his start is so auspicious it leads one to believe that his business judgment is as keen as his eyesight.

Editor and Publisher announces that Mr. Ziegfeld is tearing down the Times Square electric sign which formerly advertised the "Follies" at a cost of $50,000 a year. Mr. Ziegfeld also is cancelling $75,000 worth of contracts for outdoor advertising, billboards, etc.

But has Mr. Ziegfeld decided the "Follies" are so well known as an institution that they can get along without advertising? No, no! His business mind warned him to check the results of the various forms of publicity he had been using.

Here is what Editor and Publisher says he found:

"Ziegfeld's investigations found that this expensive form of advertising through billboards and electric signs scattered promiscuously along highways brought no regular traceable return, while advertising in newspaper columns was productive of a readily ascertainable return."

What, then, is he going to do with this $125,000 a year his cancelled contracts save? HE IS GOING TO DIVERT IT TO NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING.

A Train Of Thoughts
For the Sabbath and Other Days

By J. E. Blair

What we are, we do. Be a man, and you act the part of a man. Be a poet, and you write a poem. As Milton says: "You must be an epic before you can write an epic." Athletes practice athletics, etc. But on the other hand, what we do, we become. "Man is a bundle of habits." Practice fairness, and you become fair. Do good, and you become good. Try to write a poem, and you may write one—despite the fact we are told that "poets are born, not made." Practice athletics, and you become an athlete, etc. But where does this being, Man, come from? It is true if man lifts not his hand it will wither, but where does the hand, the arm, and the man himself come from? Look at your watch—did it make itself? No, a watch maker made it. Look at yourself "in the glass." Did you make yourself? No, a man-maker called God, made you. Now the first thing one realizes when he "comes to the years of understanding"—when he realizes that man is a God-made being, is that something is wrong. Man feels like he has fallen and been all broken up. If a watch falls and is all broken, does the watch fix itself? No. The watch maker, that made the watch and knows all about it, takes the watch up and fixes it. If a man falls—and there are not many who have not fallen—does he pick himself up and fix himself? No. If a mere man undertakes to fix himself he soon lands in the middle of a bad fix. No, man is not his own savior. He might be the "architect of his own fortune," in a limited sense, but he cannot save his own soul. Just as the watch maker fixes the watch and starts it running, so must that man-maker, called God, repair man, if he ever runs the race of life honestly and fairly. But when God has "created a clean heart within and renewed a right spirit," He does not change or nullify the old law of "doing and being." Being re-made, being "born again," only opens the way for the working out of the law of "doing and being." Once the watch maker fixes a watch, he expects it to do his bidding. Once God re-makes us—saves us—He expects and demands that we do His bidding. "Not every one that saith 'Lord, Lord,'" says the Master, "but he that doeth My will." The most terrible indictments of all the Bible, and of all life, are drawn against those who do not. "Woe to them who are at ease in Zion," says stern old Amos in the opening sentence of Sunday's Bible lesson. Woe unto them that are in the church, but are satisfied to do little or nothing. But DOING is ever and always dependent upon BEING. Therefore, let us believe and follow the gentle pleading of noble Hosea in the same Bible lesson, where he says: "Come, and let us return unto the Lord . . . and He will heal us . . . and He will bind us up."

The Reason Madge Strove to Keep Cool with Dicky.

"HELLO, Madge! How about some breakfast?"

This was Dicky's unmannerly greeting, and my pulses, which had accelerated at his unexpected appearance, dropped to normal again. There was no romanticism in his greeting, but instead a comfort-loving, habit-tid-den individual, who detested loneliness and hotel meals, and was fleeing from them.

"The prospect is quite good," I returned with a smile. "Provided you can flag Lillian and tell her to get more rolls and fruit. She's gone to the market, but she ought to be back any minute now."

"I'll go and be a market-boy," he promised. "But, first, look here."

He came up to me, slipped an arm around me and turned my face up to his.

"You aren't sore, are you?" he said, kissing me.

There was something undefinable in his low tone which puzzled me, and I looked up quickly to see his eyes not upon me, but furtively glancing toward the back door that separates our kitchen from the Marks' bedroom. He was afraid that his plea might be overheard, and while upon any other occasion I would have shared his apprehension, there was something about his timidity which, taken with the careless, perfectionist of both query and caress, took the fine edge from the joy I had felt upon first seeing him.

"I shall fly!"

"Not a bit," I returned, making my tone as careless as his. And I made a tiny but definite movement away from his embrace before he was ready to release me, a strategic value of which every woman knows.

His arms tightened as if involuntarily, then relaxed, and he laughed a bit sardonically.

"Not quite severed from the stake yet, eh?" he queried, with narrowing eyes, and then, I suppose, warned by the anger which his favorite game of his brings to his eyes, he turned away with a careless, "How many more things shall I tell you, Lil?"

"It depends upon your own appetite," I retorted, forcing my voice to flippancy. "But you'd better hurry or she'll be back before you start."

"I shall fly," he promised, and hurried out of the door while I

SPRING FLOWERS

By Juanita Hamel

HOW like the flowers of Spring she is—the debutante who has just announced her social being to the world! Like the daffodil she's proud—proud of her youth, and happy with the joy of living. And yet, she's like the violet, who would shrink from all eyes—still timid, still afraid she's not as fair as some other flower and not knowing she's fairest of them all!

YOUR HEALTH

What Science Knows
and Does About Pellagra

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

THERE are many ill the human body is heir to, the cause of which we can only surmise. Pellagra is such a condition.

Through the South and Middle West there is the greatest prevalence of pellagra.

For many years it was believed that spoiled maize or corn used in the diet was the cause. Investigations made by the United States Public Health Service have shown that while the eating of corn in itself does not cause pellagra, they advise very strongly against its forming the principal part of the dietary. This means corn cereals and other corn products.

The first symptoms of pellagra are gastric distress, nausea, gas, constipation, and, of course, diarrhea.

The diarrhea of pellagra differs somewhat from that of other conditions. The patient finds it difficult to control the bowel action, and the feces are expelled with great force. The stools have the odor of putrefying material.

The skin symptoms, which are conspicuous, do not as a rule appear until much later. They begin on the exposed portions of the body and at first look not unlike sunburn. They may appear in spots or groups of eruptions. These pass off after a few days, leaving the skin rough and scaly.

The backs of the hands, the wrists, the legs and the feet are most commonly affected. Sometimes the skin eruptions develop into raw bleeding surfaces.

Burning of the mouth, swelling of the tongue and itching of the skin are other symptoms.

In the treatment of pellagra, proper hygiene and diet are essential. It has been found that this disease is more common in hot weather than in cold. Therefore, the sufferer will be greatly helped by being kept in a cool room if possible.

Corn and corn products, vegetable consisting largely of roughage should be avoided. Sweet milk, buttermilk, steak, lamb chops, white meat of chicken, the finer vegetables, should all be included in the diet.

Rectal injections of bismuth will help the diarrhea, as will colonic flushings. Hypophosphite of soda, one ounce to one pint of water, will relieve the itching of the skin.

Boroglycerine or any alkaline wash will be refreshing if there is soreness of the mouth.

But it is most advisable to be under the observation of your own doctor, who will make the cure speedy and certain.

cream, fresh vegetables, etc., will help you to gain weight. It is also important to get regular hours of sleep, and rest, plenty of outdoor exercise and drink water between meals. Deep breathing is very important.

A. Y. Q.—Which meal should be the heaviest?

A.—Evening dinner is usually the heavy meal.

DOROTHY C. Q.—Will bobbing the hair of a growing girl make it grow thicker?

A.—Bobbing the hair is likely to make it grow thicker.

M. D. Q.—Will you kindly tell me whether it is better to use a warm or cold wash on the eyes? I have been troubled with weak eyes.

A.—It is better to use a warm wash when bathing the eyes. You should have your eyes examined about every six months or each year to see whether or not your glasses are properly fitted.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medical, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. HOME-MAKING HELPS

Are You Preparing the Contents of a Hope Chest?

By VANDA BARTON

A HOPE chest in the olden days was quite a different proposition from its counterpart today. Mothers and grandmothers used to begin when the girl baby was born, to put away hand-made pieces of lace and fine woven linens, out of which some day her wedding garments would be fashioned. Even pieces of hand-embroidery, fine bits of table and bed linen were tucked away piece by piece, each with tender dreams about their future use. Loving labor filled the chest by the time it was needed with a dowry that was a treasure to its owner.

Today's hope chest is filled more quickly, though perhaps less lovingly. But this is a rapid age, and the fullness of the chest depends only upon the lining of the pocket-books of those who fill its depth. Quite the most remarkable chest was seen not long ago. We were convinced that the fairy godmothers were still in existence when we were told that it held "ten thousand dollars' worth" of wonderful embroidered bridal linens. "Though we may not all of us have such a chest, it is astonishing what we may accomplish in the way of collecting desirable things by perseverance and patient labor."

The old "dozen" of everything has gone out of fashion. The modern girl is putting away sets, runners, tray cloths, table linens, porch linens and modern things, "use to-day." But few damask table linens add weight to the chest. Personal trousseau articles are not considered part of the chest's filling.

In some of the bride's chests the modern craze for color has crept in, and the fine sheets have embroidered monograms done in colors with wash silks in fine satin stitch. Towels and other linens are done in pastel shades. Six sheets are made with hemstitched hem simply stitched with color, and six are for upper sheets, showing elaborately-embroidered hems. These will remain colorful and dainty as long as the work is unfaded. The more conservative are having sheets made up in pure white, which is likely to remain at its best a long time.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Love's Spirit of Life

Winifred Black

I couldn't grow—they simply wouldn't. We'd put them out a week or ten days ago all in the gay Spring sunshine.

"We'll have a gay little box of red and yellow posies on the window-sill," we said. "Even the cool leaves are pretty—round like a fairy umbrella and with such smooth, smooth stems and such a nice delicate green. And I do love the nasturtiums, they're so friendly and joyous, somehow! Yes, they're perfectly easy. All you do is to put some good dirt in a box and drop the seed in the dirt—and there you are."

But there we were not—as it turned out.

We watered moderately, we moved the box to follow the sun, but not a single little green head appeared above the surface.

But yesterday the one who really loves flowers took a watering pot and flooded the window-box so that the water stood about an inch deep over all the earth.

And, somehow, all at once there seemed to occur the miracle of growth and seed; and all at once the earth began to stir as if something alive were struggling to get out.

Bubble, bubble, said the water. What could it be? We looked in amazement—yes, there they were, the little green rascals thrusting their heads through the water. You could see them growing. That's all they had needed, water and plenty of it. And when they got it, they decided that it must be a pretty nice world up there above the dark earth, and they'd just pack up and go and find out what there was to be seen.

Yellow primroses have seen at dusk open as we looked at them. "Pop!" the yellow primroses seemed to say, like a little kiss of good-bye to the daylight, but never before have I watched a seed actually begin to grow into a plant.

How much there is all about us all the time that we do not see.

Pure Love Conquers

This morning a woman called over the phone. "I want you to come and see the baby," she said. "You won't know her. She's like a different creature."

And I went to see the baby—delightful errand—and sure enough I could hardly believe my eyes. Was it only a week ago that the poor little thing looked so weak and wizened? I remember how my heart ached when I saw her.

"Poor little mother," I thought. "When she gets home from the hospital, I'm afraid she'll find the new baby gone."

And here the youngster was actually plump and actually rosy. And of all the bright eyes—no, yes, she smiled a real smile, and there was a dimple and a spirit of mischief laughed in her funny little face! Such a spirit of elfin laughter that it was all you could do to keep from grabbing her and burying her face in the little warm hollow of her neck.

What in the world had changed her so?

The little young mother smiled from her rocking chair. "Me!" she said. "I did it! I couldn't bear the way she looked when I came home and saw her, and I let the doctors and the nurse talk and talk, but I held her in my arms and sang to her."

ODD and INTERESTING FACTS

Lincoln, besieged in his first days, third are of Italian birth and a quarter million are children of Italian fathers.

In Japan an automobile is a real luxury. A license on a car of the cheapest type costs about $300, while gasoline, with taxes added, means an expense of approximately a dollar a gallon. In addition, practically all cars come from America, and the motorist must pay an import duty of 45 per cent.

Sardinia boasts the largest artificial lake in Europe. A power and irrigation improvement has recently been completed there on the River Tiro, in connection with which 420,000 cubic meters of water have been impounded. And this, it is stated, is only the first of seven huge artificial reservoirs included in the project.

and told her stories, very, very quietly, and before I'd been home two days she knew me—and now look at her!"

The doctor is a very wise man.

He only smiled at first and then he said:

"Well, there may be something in what you say, after all. Science isn't the only thing on earth. It takes love to bring up a baby. If you don't believe it, just compare the statistics of the death rates of the best orphan asylum in the world to the statistics of the death rate among the children who have a real mother to love them."

"A Great Medicine"

"Yes, love is a great medicine. I wish we could keep it in bottles and give it out in regular doses. We'd save a lot of babies, I can tell you that."

And I hurried home to look at the nasturtiums and see if they were really there. Yes, a little row of them, as green as green and stout and sturdy, too—for their age.

Every time I pick one of them when they are grown, I shall think of the little human baby who grew and thrived—because she was loved.

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

She Describes a Wash Silk Dress for Day Wear.

"I THINK the new mode for tub-silk frocks is the most youthful and flattering I've seen for a long time," Pam said to me to-day.

"I agree with you," I told her.

"I can think of any number of them that Madame has designed that would make any woman look lovely," she continued.

"Well, perhaps not any woman," I corrected her.

"But certainly any woman who has a slim figure and a fairly attractive face," Pam insisted.

"And in these days any woman who cares at all about her looks must achieve slim lines," I added.

"And every woman does care about her looks," Pam said.

"She can also have a fairly attractive face if she takes care of it," I reminded her.

"And if she owns one of Madame's tub-silks she's pretty sure to look attractive," Pam insisted.

"Well, do go on and tell me which one brought this burst of admiration from you," I begged her.

"Well, I was thinking of the one Miss Blake just had fitted," she said.

"Which one?" I asked anxiously.

"An adorable thing that combined plain white silk with silk striped in blue and white," she told me.

"The blue stripes crossed each other so as to make tiny checks," Pam went on to tell me.

"Sounds like the cunning gingham apron I used to wear when I was a child," I remarked.

"Doubtless the same pattern," Pam said. "And a youthful one, you must admit."

"It certainly seems so to me," I admitted. "The power of suggestion would make it seem so to me, any way."

"Well, this frock is being made in the youthful style that Madame achieves so successfully," Pam assured me.

"Being what?" I suggested with a rising inflection.

"The skirt part is all of the striped lines," I asked.

"Quite straight," Pam informed me. "It fits rather close at the

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am a young man, twenty-three years old. I am in love with a young woman three years my senior. She tells me that she loves me, but her mother tells her she shall not go with me. How shall I win her mother's good will?

BROKEN-HEARTED SAM. Probably the young lady's mother objects to your suit on account of the difference in your ages. Convince the mother of your sincere love for the young lady and it is probable that she will change her attitude toward you.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: We are two girls in our teens. 1.—When we go to parties, they don't generally start until about nine o'clock. What time do you think we ought to be in? 2.—When we get home from parties, our parents have retired. Should we ask our young men friends to come in? 3.—Should we give our young men friends our pictures? 4.—We have gone out with our young men friends without a chaperon. Do you think we ought to do so? 5.—If we can't get a chaperon, what would you advise us to do?

HANS AND FRITZ: 1.—Eleven o'clock at the latest. However, your parents should state the time and you should be governed by their wishes. 2.—Certainly not. 3.—You should be chaperoned at all times, otherwise you should not be allowed to go.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am a girl of twenty-one and am engaged to a young man six years my senior. We love each other dearly. I see him twice a week. When I see him he never speaks about the future or what his plans are. Do you think it would be right for me to ask him about this? We have been engaged for almost a year. What would be an appropriate gift to give a young man on his birthday?

AUBURN: It would be quite proper for you to broach the subject of the future to the young man. He is probably waiting for you to take the initiative. As you are engaged there are many appropriate gifts shown in the various shops that would be proper for you to give. Not knowing the young man's tastes it is rather difficult to suggest anything definite.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her, in care of this office.

PLANS OUTLINED BY CENTRAL METHODIST RULES OF CONTEST ARE GIVEN AGAIN

The evangelistic committee of Central Methodist church met at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday evening at 6:30 o'clock for dinner, with Rev. J. D. Hunter, pastor, W. H. Day, chairman of the board of stewards and J. F. Lovin, superintendent of the Sunday school.
The chairman opened the meeting by calling attention to the opportunities and responsibilities confronting Central Methodist church in this community. The meeting was then thrown open for discussion and the following ideas rapidly took definite form.
That the personal workers committee continue to act with an enlarged field of action, by the visitation of unchurched or unaffiliated Methodist in a given territory with special committees working under the general chairman of the personal workers committee, this work to be carried on throughout the year.
That the cottage prayer meeting committee continue to function as during the revival campaign just closed and Dr. R. M. McGlathery was very enthusiastic in his approval of this plan, he being chairman of this work.
That a men's organization be formed composed of all men of Central Methodist church and acting on motion from the floor the chair appointed C. W. Matthews, W. H. Day, R. M. McGlathery, J. D. Bush to act as a committee to formulate plans and proceed with the organization of this club.
After every member present had pledged his unceasing efforts to making these plans a reality, the meeting adjourned with the feeling that a new day is dawning for Central Methodists in this community.

nitrogen, undoubtedly, a great industrial center would be created," he added.
"No mention is made in the Ford bid for the distribution of power estimated at 800,000 horsepower. The contract only calls for production of nitrogen.
"Muscle Shoals would create the greatest power trust known in history and the South would be at the mercy of the Shoals operator. Instead of developing this property for the benefit of this section, you would give the lessee all the power for his own manufacturing plant. Ford is not a philanthropist. He is dealing with this on a business proposition. He is doing it in an open and above board manner.
"It is said that Ford guarantees to produce fertilizer. There is no such guarantee in the contract."
Greater Power Needed
Garfield agreed with Senator Heflin democrat, Alabama, that cheap fertilizer could be produced at Muscle Shoals, but he thought it was a far greater need to produce power than fertilizer.
"Since the days of land grants, we have learned a great deal about giving away public properties. We should not give it away. We should lease it to the benefit of future generations. I you give Henry Ford Muscle Shoals under his terms, you might as well reject the general power act.
"It is merely glamor of the name that has attracted attention of the country, because of his achievements. The method of handling Muscle Shoals should be in accordance with provisions of the power act. I see no reason for a differential from the other power plants. I think it would be better for the government to lease Muscle Shoals for private operation, rather than try to operate it for itself.
"Equal chance should be given to power from the plant."
Senator Heflin asked if Garfield did not think Ford deserved a great deal of credit for offering to take Muscle Shoals off the scrap heap.
Garfield said he did not think so nor did he believe Ford was prompted by philanthropy, but submitted his bid only for sound business reasons.
Garfield said he did not think so of the present bids, because he was not familiar with any of them, but he did favor the bidder who abided by the law as drawn up by the federal power commission.

Amusements What the Press Agents Say

Is any man safe from the affections of feminine admirers? Is the inheritance of $1,000,000 on one's wedding day really a help to Cupid where a nice girl is concerned? These and other questions are answered in Thomas Meighan's latest Paramount star picture, "Woman-Proof," which will be shown at the Princess theater next Monday. This is a story of romance where the conditions of matrimony are decidedly unromantic. The story was written by George Ade, noted humorist and the picture was directed by Alfred E. Green.
The story is that of a civil engineer, Tom Rockwood, played by Thomas Meighan, whose father made a will stipulating that all his children must marry before they could inherit his huge fortune. Tom has two sisters and a brother, all of whom soon select mates, but Tom is too busy directing a huge engineering project to bother about love. The story opens with the brother and sisters and their prospective mates planning to induce Tom to marry. Meanwhile, young Rockwood accidentally falls in love, and is on the point of proposing marriage when complications arise.
Milo Bleech an unscrupulous lawyer and the executor of the Rockwood estate, temporarily blocks the love romance of Tom and Louise Halliday, but matters are finally adjusted, Bleech is defeated and the Rockwoods inherit the fortune. Lila Lee is the girl and heads a strong supporting cast.
The management of the Princess theater announces a special Bachelors matinee for Monday night on "Woman-Proof." Every bachelor in town escorting a lady will be admitted free. If you are a bachelor and have been "Woman-Proof" just ask her to accompany you Monday night, but one ticket, both admitted for the price of one.

PETITE SALON WILL SHOW THE LINCOLN

Quality car lovers will find a new delight in the Petite Salon to be held in Memphis this week.

The salon is to be presented by the Settings of unusual beauty will be arranged for the cars and visitors will find themselves in most luxurious surroundings. Music by Poppolardo's orchestra will add to the pleasing effectiveness of the salon.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

Our Day's Work

THE Southern Railway System is producing more than 100,000 ton-miles of freight transportation in the five minutes you spend reading this advertisement.

A ton-mile, the yardstick of freight service, is a ton moved one mile. For example, hauling 100,000 tons a mile equals a hundred thousand ton-miles.

It is a big day's work that an 8,300 mile railway system, with 60,000 employees, does every twenty-four hours. Our average daily performance in 1923 shows these results:

Trains operated	1,250
Distance run by trains	120,000 miles
Passengers carried	50,000
Freight loaded on our lines and received from other railroads	8,000 carloads
Freight movement	32,000,000 ton-miles
Coal burned by locomotives	14,000 tons
Wages paid	$220,000
Materials and supplies purchased	$135,000
Taxes paid	$ 26,000

If you will multiply any of these items by 365 the result will be a year's performance on the Southern Railway System.

The prosperity of millions of people in the twelve states served by the Southern depends on the faithful and efficient performance of our day's work.

Magic Health Car Crosses Kansas Luring Mothers and Children with Exhibit Under State Auspices

Health is exciting in Kansas.

When the "Warren" comes into town with No. 3 eastbound and is parked on a siding for a day, the school children from miles around rush to the railroad station as if it were the circus train. Instead of just a single converted Pullman fitted up with displays and exhibits on the grown-up subject of health.

The "Warren" has been repainted and renovated to go forth as a mobile health school. New exhibits, posters, medical apparatus for clinics and new health appliances have been installed in this famous Kansas "health school on wheels," which is making its seventh annual tour.

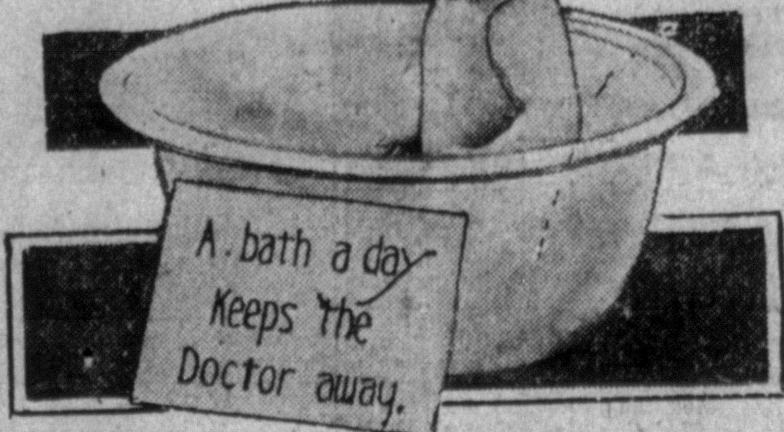

The car is well advertised ahead but now and then dates get mixed and it rolls into a town unheralded. In one such community the ten-year-old son of the mayor discovered the presence of the strange visitor Saturday noon. He came on his bicycle as started out like a modern Paul Revere, a proud "evening Middlesex village and farm". Not only did he stir the population to the marvel that was in their midst, but he laid down on his hands and knees sixteen young white horses of the age of three or thereabouts and personally supervised their weighing in to see if they were undernourished. As a result of his efforts the car had very close to one hundred per cent attendance from the community.

Two women members of the Kansas State Board of Health travel with the car. They supervise clinics, give advice in regard to health problems, show health movies and distribute health literature supplied by the state board and through the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Mrs. Buena Burr has for years watched over the personal and social hygiene of Kansas high school girls and Miss Lillian Fitzpatrick is the expert on child hygiene.

The car presents its message largely through means of visual education, carrying exhibits such as are not often seen by people outside circles of specialists. The usual procedure is for the school children to visit the car by classes or departments during the morning and the mothers bring the tiny youngsters of pre-school age during the afternoon.

General Joseph E. Johnston surrendered to General William T. Sherman at Raleigh, North Carolina, April 26, 1865. Johnston had been notified by Sherman that the truce now existing would close within 48 hours after he received the notice. A demand was also made that Johnston's army be surrendered on the same terms accorded by Grant to Lee. Sherman had his army ready to resume the offensive at noon on the 26th. The agreement was signed and endorsed by U. S. Grant. This marked the end of the second army of the Confederacy.

WHY WE THINK OUR CHURCH WILL APPEAL TO YOU:

BECAUSE it is not a social, but a soul-saving institution;
BECAUSE its service aims not to please the senses, but to win the heart.

BECAUSE it features not side-issues, but the preaching of the Word;

BECAUSE it shuns the sensations of the moment and preaches Christ crucified;

BECAUSE it feels its duty, without fear or favor of man to proclaim the whole counsel of God;

BECAUSE it has a definite platform and sounds the firm note of conviction.
